

At our school, we believe that art is an integral part of the whole learning process, allowing everyone, at whatever stage of development or ability, to communicate feelings, experiences and emotions in a variety of ways. At Wrington, we aim to offer our children the opportunity to develop their skills and their love of art by:

providing them with a balanced programme of skills and techniques through a structured art curriculum; offering opportunities to explore and understand the visual and tactile elements of art and craft in structured and exploratory contexts; developing their understanding of and skills in using a range of techniques and processes; developing their awareness of the artistic styles and traditions of different cultures, traditions and eras; offering opportunities to work independently and collaboratively, in two and three dimensions and on different scales;

valuing their work through discussion and display.

We try to make links between art and other subjects wherever possible, exploring a range of starting points.
